

STATE OF TEXAS
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Recognizing that a variety of opportunities in education can expand a child's possibilities for success, as no two children are exactly alike; it is important that we recognize the diverse, unique needs of students which often necessitate unique and varied methods of instruction. Education is vital for young Texans because it builds a solid foundation on which they can pursue their dreams, and it is our job to ensure every student has access to a robust, high-quality education. Effective education will continue to play an important role in preparing all Texas schoolchildren to be successful, productive adults.

Fortunately, Texas is home to a multitude of high-quality schools, including first-rate traditional public schools, magnet schools, charter schools, and private schools, as well as at-home education. Texans are also blessed with efficient and committed educators across all types of learning environments. Parents' ability to be flexible in the educational choice they make for their children provides multiple learning environments for students' unique learning needs, adds diversity to our thriving economy, and enhances the vibrancy of our communities.

School Choice Week is celebrated across the nation by millions of students, parents, educators, schools, and community leaders to raise awareness of the importance of effective educational options for all children.

At this time, I encourage all Texans to learn more about the wide variety of educational choices available to them while also supporting families' abilities to choose the learning environment that best suits their children's needs.

Therefore, I, Greg Abbott, Governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim January 23-29, 2022, to be in Texas, and urge the appropriate recognition whereof.

School Choice Week

In official recognition whereof,
I hereby affix my signature this the 21st day of December, 2021.

Governor of Texas
